Hi Yannis,

It is very annoying that I do not have the disaggregated evals so I am copying comments here but, I do not know who they are for unless your name is given. I copy them all here, except the named ones which are not yours. But, I am sure any of this could be applied to you.

Let's see if Amy comes up with anything more, I am trying to get them to be more proactive but, I had asked them for this many times already and they are just not doing it so I do not have high hopes.

COPIED COMMENTS:

Great teacher, very patient, excellent in explaining and tackling difficult topics. Also pushed us students to solve certain problems with reasoning, rather than just learning by heart.

He is a very good seminar leader. His way of explanation made it easier to understand this module.

Ioannis (Yannis) was a great and helpful seminar leader

Ioannis was a brilliant seminar leader often asking the students questions and explaining all concepts very clearly.

Thank you for being a seminar leader, you were very friendly and I felt comfortable enough to ask you questions. I know the seminars would be better in person where it would have been easier to communicate.

I wish we had more people in the Group as there were only two of us which is which meant that there weren't a lot of ideas being bounced around. However I do understand this is hard to control especially online.

The best seminar leader I had this year. Very good at explaining the material, always looking for us to get involved but not too pushy.

The seminar leader with very helpful within the seminar to explain concepts in a concise manner. When it came to email replies they were quite helpful, especially liked the help with the ISQ and helped to explain them when we were stuck.

The whiteboard used in seminars wasn't great, but word document answers to seminars were provided balancing it out

Due to everything being multiple choice there wasn't a lot of feedback able to be given. Groups idea was very helpful, I liked it

Overall, I enjoyed every bit of the module. The seminar and module leaders are clearly passionate about their field and it makes a difference when taking a heavy module like microeconomics. I wish there was a way to institutionalize engagement among students both in and out of the classroom.

Ran very smoothly - perfect

Thank you, Maria, for your reply.

@HSS Student Experience, could you please check any teaching evaluations from EC500 from spring term 2020/21 under my name. It is important to include it in my teaching portfolio for the job applications I'm doing this period. Since my name was not included in the autumn term last year, I would really appreciate if you could get me anything from the spring term. It can be either quantitative or qualitative – anything.

Thank you for your help!

Best,
Yannis

Dear Yannis,

I am ccing the student experience team. The student experience team is responsible for setting up the module evaluations and ensuring that all GTAs receive the evaluations that correspond to the groups they teach. Convenors only have access to the aggregate evaluations for all groups which means that unless you are explicitly named in an evaluation we cannot know if the comment refers to you.

Regards,

Maria.

Dear Maria,

Hope you are keeping well and term goes fine!

Last spring term, which was my last teaching one in Micro, I didn't receive any teaching evaluations from the students.

In the autumn term, I wasn't included at all as an option in the TA list. At least my students wrote a few comments and I can show if needed a positive feedback.

Do you know who should I contact for any teaching evaluations for the spring term?

Best,
Yannis
